

Cane Creek Friends Meeting Sesquicentennial Gathering Past, Present and Future 1751 - 2001

Cane Creek will be two hundred fifty years old in October 2001. The meeting has a long and colorful history. When Cane Creek Meeting was established George Washington was nineteen years old, Benjamin Franklin had already flown his kite and the Declaration of Independence was only a gleam in Thomas Jefferson's eye. All the events which have affected our nation have affected our Quaker Meeting as well because we were there.

Cane Creek Meeting has published a remembrance book titled, From Whence We Came. It is a pictorial history of many families of the meeting and the surrounding Snow Camp community. It depicts generations of Friends in their daily activities and their simplistic search for spiritual growth throughout the years.

As the oldest active Meeting in Piedmont North Carolina, Cane Creek Friends Meeting will celebrate their two hundred fiftieth birthday the week of October 1 through October 7, 2001. We invite you to help us celebrate by reflecting on the past, centering on the present and planning for the future.

Cane Creek Mother of Meetings

The story of how Cane Creek Meeting has met the challenges presented by two and one half centuries of its existence is told in the book Cane Creek Mother of Meetings by Bobbie Teague. Included in its 160 pages are the stories of courageous men and women who braved the hardships of the wilderness, stood firm in their faith through times of war and peace, and enhanced the lives of many as their horizons expanded and their influence spread throughout the county, state and nation.

One can read of the struggles of the Meeting as it tried to uphold the Quaker testimonies, provide a good education for its children, and offer many kinds of assistance to the community.

Also, included in the book are several anecdotes which will cause the reader to smile. For example the adventures of "Sherman" will of interest to young and old alike.
